

The George Gund Foundation
2010 Annual Report

President's Letter

The compelling portraits of Cleveland performing artists by Amy Arbus in this annual report capture the energy, excitement, insight and innovation that these talented men and women bring to our community. These remarkable actors, dancers and musicians not only entertain and inspire us, but also challenge us to look at ourselves and our community in new and different ways. They build bridges between cultures, open our eyes to new possibilities and continually amaze us with their creativity.

The performing arts have a long, rich history in our community, and the Foundation is proud of the role it has played in supporting a diverse range of organizations and artists, not only in our formal concert halls and theaters but also in our neighborhoods, schools and parks. We also have supported ongoing efforts to encourage artists to make Cleveland their home because we recognize that their innovation and creativity are essential to this community's vitality.

As we say in our program guidelines, "The Foundation values and supports the role the arts play in making Cleveland and its region a more desirable place to live, encouraging the growth of a creative workforce, catalyzing development in our neighborhoods and serving as a bridge between various segments of the community."

The Foundation also has been a major supporter of public-private partnerships and advocacy efforts to ensure the future of a vibrant arts community, and we are proud that Cuyahoga County, thanks to voters who approved a cigarette tax in 2006, is one of the largest public arts funders in the country through Cuyahoga Arts and Culture (CAC).

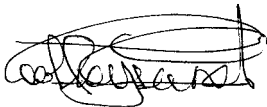

We were also a cofounder more than a decade ago of the Community Partnership for Arts and Culture (CPAC), which with funding from CAC, developed the Creative Workforce Fellowship program that each year recognizes and makes significant financial awards to 20 local artists. CPAC also started the unique Artist as Entrepreneur Institute and recently launched an innovative program, in collaboration with local community development organizations, to encourage artists to buy houses in Cleveland.

Several of our longtime grantees also took steps during 2010 and in the early months of 2011 to ensure that for many years to come they will be contributing to the region's vitality and supporting the artists who make Greater Cleveland their home.

The Museum of Contemporary Art Cleveland broke ground for its new building in University Circle. The Cleveland Play House announced a new partnership with Cleveland State University's theater department and a move to a renovated Allen Theatre in PlayhouseSquare. The Museum of Art continued to open new and renovated galleries that are part of its significant expansion program. The Cleveland Institute of Art completed the first phase of its move to a centralized campus on Euclid Avenue. The Rainey Institute moved from a cramped century home on East 55th Street to a new, spacious facility just a few blocks away.

The head of the National Endowment for the Arts, Rocco Landesman, uses the phrase "art works" when he advocates for support of the sector. He has three meanings for those two simple words: They are a noun that refers to works of art. They remind us that art works on audiences and viewers to transport and inspire them. And they recognize that arts workers have real jobs that are a vital part of our economy.

We couldn't agree with him more.

Executive Director's Letter

Americans always have been of two minds regarding government. We are proud of our history of democracy, but we are frequently suspicious of government institutions. We want vast armed forces, good roads and great schools, but we sometimes oppose the taxes needed to pay for them. We expect government to stop oil spills and prevent tainted food and drugs from entering our markets, but we decry regulations.

This eternal debate accelerated in the 1960s with the onset of a concerted antigovernment campaign by several interest groups, funded in part by foundations, and today it has reached a feverish state with the rise of the Tea Party.

All of us carry elements of this conflicted view within us like a part of our national DNA. Most of this conflict focuses on the federal government, but recent fiscal stresses have brought new attention to the states. Rarely does our consideration shift to local government. Perhaps that is because part of the mythology of the anti-federal government argument is that local governments are closer to the people and, therefore, are more effectively guided.

But the fact is that in Ohio, as in many of the older parts of our country, local governments have not adapted to the demands of rapidly changing times. Northeast Ohio has more than 650 units of local government. Local government is fully 10 percent of our regional domestic product. Statewide, we spend 49 percent more than the national average on school administration because we have so many separate districts. Ohio ranks 34th in state taxes but ninth in local taxes because we have so many local governments and overlapping jurisdictions.

This galaxy of governments may have made sense when the most rapid travel was by horseback, but today we must seriously question our devotion to the delivery of so many services in such a fragmented way.

Northeast Ohio has made great strides in building regional teamwork. The remorselessly competitive global economy demands that we do so. We have stoked our spirit of entrepreneurship. We are successfully making the transition from the old economy to the new. Great challenges remain, and none is greater than the fact that our fragmented local governance too often keeps us from functioning as an effective regional economic team. Our political boundaries undermine the coherence of our regional voice. They promote competition among ourselves rather than against the world, and that costs us money, fuels unsustainable sprawl and undermines our competitiveness.

I certainly do not raise this point out of antigovernment animus. I worked for a decade in government and prize that experience and praise the dedication of most of those with whom I worked. Government has a vital role to play. Government is our way, the democratic way, of tackling issues that can only be addressed in common. Police and firefighting. Schools and child protective services. Parks and street cleaning. These and many more services are provided by local governments because we need them to be. But delivering them by so many local governments is not sustainable in the long term.

This state of affairs is not hopeless. The reform of Cuyahoga County government demonstrates what is possible if we muster the will. And, in fact, if we want a successful future, we must find ways to streamline service delivery across boundaries and maximize the impact of our regional tax dollars. We simply cannot count on resources from the federal and state governments. We must creatively overcome the divisions among us in order to forge the sort of strategy that can propel us into a vibrant future.

Vehicles to help us do this already exist.

Late in 2010, after a highly competitive process, the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development awarded $4.25 million to Northeast Ohio for regional planning. Our proposal was ranked third in the nation. This "Sustainable Communities" process is just beginning, but we all should take advantage of it to create ingenious ways to strengthen our regional team.

A parallel attempt to help us break through boundaries is the Civic Commons. This effort — funded by the Knight Foundation and guided by the Fund for Our Economic Future — aims to engage our regional citizenry on issues where we can make change. This path-breaking marriage of technology, journalism and outreach is one more tool to help us chip away at the boundaries that keep us from effectively working together. You can connect to information on both efforts through the website of the Fund for Our Economic Future, www.FutureFundNEO.org or at www.CivicCommons.org

One of the worst consequences of mindless antigovernment sentiment is that it makes us think that government is somehow separate from us. That is fatal to a democracy. We get the government we deserve. We own it. We can change it. And we ought to start doing that where we live.

Human Services

The Foundation primarily sought opportunities to invest in innovative public policy efforts resulting from the evolving government landscape in Cuyahoga County, Columbus and Washington, D.C., and the inevitable impact of the ongoing economic downturn. Reflecting these realities, our grant support aided effective pursuit of new federal grant opportunities and a novel collaboration facilitating nonprofit restructuring, including mergers. Grant highlights included supporting system reforms and public investment in the health care, hunger relief, early childhood, juvenile justice, adoption, community reentry and adolescent reproductive health systems. Human services grantmaking totaled $5,431,200.

George Gund

George Gund was born in La Crosse, Wisconsin, and his family settled in Cleveland in 1897. Following graduation from Harvard College (1909) and graduate study at Harvard Business School, his early career included banking and real estate in Seattle, serving in Army intelligence during World War I, developing the Kaffee-Hag Corporation in Cleveland, attending Animal Husbandry School at Iowa State University and ranching in Nevada.

In 1936, Mr. Gund married Jessica Roesler and settled down in Cleveland to raise a family. His interest in banking culminated in his becoming President of The Cleveland Trust Company in 1941. At his death in 1966, he was Chairman of the Board.

In 1937, Mr. Gund began a formal program of charitable giving, and his philanthropic concern extended throughout his life. He carefully selected those charities to which he committed his funds. If the commitment was considerable over a long period of time, he characteristically devoted much of his time and energy to the institution.

Strong relationships developed with the educational institutions that shaped Mr. Gund's early life. He contributed time and money to University School (Cleveland), where he was a trustee, and to Iowa State University, where he established a scholarship program for students of animal husbandry. He served on the Board of Overseers of Harvard College from 1954 to 1960 and was closely involved at Harvard with the School of Public Health and the Business School from 1954 to 1966. Another interest in higher education was Kenyon College, where he served as a trustee for many years.

Although Mr. Gund had little personal experience in the arts, his devotion to them was great. Perhaps the single best example was his long association with the Cleveland Institute of Art. In 1942, he became President of the Institute and, under his leadership, saw it develop into a lively and prestigious institution.

The George Gund Foundation was created in 1952 because Mr. Gund believed the private foundation concept provided the most positive, farsighted vehicle for intelligent underwriting of creative solutions to social ills in a manner which would not be limited to his own lifetime. He favored the corporate foundation structure directed by an experienced, sensitive board of trustees entrusted not only with disbursement of funds, but an objective, practical review of proposals. He valued the degree of freedom a private foundation can exercise in seeking and fostering innovative ideas and in implementing demonstration projects.

Today, Mr. Gund's vision is carried forth through the continued involvement of the Gund family in the Foundation's work. Since its inception, the Foundation has made grants totaling more than $564 million toward the advancement of human welfare.

NOTES TO FINANCIAL STATEMENTS – DECEMBER 31, 2010 AND 2009

NOTE 1 – Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

NATURE OF OPERATIONS The George Gund Foundation (“the Foundation”) is a private foundation which makes grants to educational, community service and philanthropic organizations, basically in Greater Cleveland.

BASIS OF ACCOUNTING The Foundation’s financial statements are presented on the accrual basis of accounting. Accordingly, revenues are recorded when earned, and expenses are recognized when incurred. The Foundation has only unrestricted net assets.

USE OF ESTIMATES The preparation of financial statements in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reporting period. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

CASH AND CASH EQUIVALENTS Cash and cash equivalents consist of highly-liquid investments with maturity dates of three months or less which are readily convertible into cash and a common trust fund that is readily convertible into cash.

INVESTMENTS Marketable and U.S. Government securities are reported at their market value. Securities traded on a national securities exchange are valued at the last reported trading price on the last business day of the year. Realized gains or losses are determined by comparison of asset cost to net proceeds received. Unrealized gains or losses are determined by comparison of asset cost to market values at the end of the year.

Investments include notes receivable which are due from various not-for-profit organizations valued at $11,637,949 and $7,675,174 at December 31, 2010 and 2009, respectively. The notes receivable are due at various dates from 2011 through 2038. The loans carry interest rates between 1% and 3%; principal and interest payment arrangements vary by note.

The Foundation invests in certain alternative investments which include investments in limited partnerships. Market values represent the Foundation’s pro rata interest in the net assets of each limited partnership as of December 31, 2010 and 2009, as provided by the fund managers. Market values as of December 31, 2010 and 2009 are not based on audited financial information supplied by the general partner or manager of the funds. Audited information is only available annually based on the partnerships’ or funds’ year end. Management reviews monthly valuations provided by the general partner or manager of the funds and assesses the reasonableness of the fair values provided at the interim dates and included in the financial statements. As of December 31, 2010 and 2009, the Foundation had total unfunded capital commitments to alternative investments of $6,295,296 and $7,863,257, respectively. Because of the inherent uncertainty of the valuation of alternative investments, the market values reflected in the accompanying financial statements may differ significantly from realizable values.

FURNITURE, EQUIPMENT AND LEASEHOLD IMPROVEMENTS Furniture, equipment and leasehold improvements are stated at cost. Amortization and depreciation is recorded using both straight-line and accelerated methods over the estimated useful lives of the assets. Depreciation and amortization expense amounted to $52,254 and $50,080 for the years ended December 31, 2010 and 2009, respectively.

FAIR VALUE MEASUREMENT-DEFINITION AND HIERARCHY The Foundation follows FASB ASC 820-10, “Fair Value Measurements.” Under this standard, fair value is defined as the price that would be received to sell an asset or paid to transfer a liability (i.e., the “exit price”) in an orderly transaction between market participants at the measurement date.

In determining fair value, the Foundation uses various valuation approaches, including market, income, and / or cost approaches. FASB ASC 820-10 establishes a hierarchy for inputs used in measuring fair value that maximizes the use of observable inputs and minimizes the use of unobservable inputs by requiring that the most observable inputs be used when available. Observable inputs are inputs that market participants would use in pricing the asset or liability developed based on market data obtained from sources independent of the Foundation. Unobservable inputs reflect the Foundation’s assumptions used in pricing the asset or liability based on the best information available in the circumstances. The hierarchy is broken down into three levels based on the reliability of inputs as follows:

LEVEL 1 Valuations based on quoted prices (unadjusted) in active markets for identical assets or liabilities that the Foundation has the ability to access. Since valuations are based on quoted prices that are readily and regularly available in an active market, valuation of these products does not entail a significant degree of judgment.

Assets and liabilities utilizing Level 1 inputs include exchange-traded equity securities that are actively traded.

LEVEL 2 Valuations based on quoted prices in markets that are not active or for which all significant inputs are observable, either directly or indirectly.

Assets and liabilities utilizing Level 2 inputs include: corporate bonds, municipal bonds, private equity investments in mutual funds and certificates of deposit with maturity dates of greater than three months.

LEVEL 3 Valuations based on inputs that are unobservable and significant to the overall fair value measurement. Unobservable input may be developed by outside third parties using marketing models based on information available to them. Unobservable inputs shall reflect the reporting entity's own assumptions about the assumptions that market participants would use in pricing. Unobservable input shall be developed based on the best information available in circumstances, which might include the reporting entity's own data.

Assets and liabilities utilizing Level 3 inputs include: equity securities that are not actively traded, private equity investments, and program related investments.

NOTE 2 – Investments

Cost and market value of investments were as follows:

	2010		2009
	Market Value	Cost	Market Value	Cost
Fixed income securities	$ 14,710,685	$ 14,707,551	$ 14,758,833	$ 14,714,640
Common stocks and alternative investments	418,939,320	256,006,743	385,626,280	249,843,647
Total	$ 433,650,005	$ 270,714,294	$ 400,385,113	$ 264,558,287

Market values of investments are based on December 31, 2009 and 2008 published quotations, except that estimates are used when quotations are not available. Fixed income securities consist of U.S. government securities, U.S. government guaranteed securities and corporate securities. Common stocks and alternative investments consist principally of U.S. and international equity securities, investments in equity mutual funds, program-related investments, investments in limited partnerships and certificates of deposits with maturity dates of three months or more.

Published market quotations do not necessarily represent realizable values, particularly where sizable holdings of a company's stock exist, as in the case of the Foundation's holding of the Kellogg Company common stock.

Published market quotations do not necessarily represent realizable values, particularly where sizable holdings of a company's stock exist, as in the case of the Foundation's holding of the Kellogg Company common stock.

NOTES TO FINANCIAL STATEMENTS (CONTINUED)NOTE 3 – Fair Value Disclosure and Measurement

Base annual rentals are $120,080 for the remaining term of the lease, with escalation charges from these base rentals. There are renewal options for additional periods. Rental expense for the years ended December 31, 2010 and 2009 amounted to $129,146 and $129,570, respectively.

NOTE 7 – Employee Benefit Plan

The Foundation has an employee's tax-sheltered annuity plan for all eligible employees. Such a plan is intended to comply with the requirements of Section 403(b) of the Internal Revenue Code (IRC). Employer contributions are required at 9% of the participants' compensation up to the social security wage base for the year and 14.7% of the participant's compensation in excess of this wage base, with a limit of $245,000 of compensation for the years ended December 31, 2010 and 2009. Employer contributions to the plan for the years ended December 31, 2010 and 2009 amounted to $118,719 and $114,930, respectively. Participants are also permitted to make salary reduction contributions to the plan.

NOTE 8 – Excise Taxes

The Foundation is exempt from federal income taxes under Section 501(c)(3) of the IRC, but is subject to a 2% (1% if certain criteria are met) federal excise tax on net investment income, including net realized gains, as defined by the IRC.

Deferred federal excise taxes are provided on the unrealized appreciation or depreciation of investments and interest and dividend income and certain expenses being reported for financial statement purposes in different periods than for tax purposes.

Current excise taxes were provided at 1% for 2010 and 2009, and deferred excise taxes were provided at 2% for 2010 and 2009. The current and deferred portions of the excise tax provisions were $198,760 and $542,951, respectively, netting to $741,711 in 2010. The current and deferred portions of the excise tax provisions were $(405,474) and $2,646,301, respectively, netting to $2,240,827 in 2009.

The Organization adopted the provisions of FASB ASC 740-10, "Accounting for Uncertainty in Income Taxes," which provides guidance on the recognition threshold that a tax position is required to meet before being recognized in the financial statements and provides guidance on derecognition, measurement, classification, interest and penalties, accounting in interim periods, disclosure and transition issues. Management has evaluated and concluded that there were no material uncertain tax positions requiring recognition in the accompanying financial statements.

Accrued interest relating to uncertain tax positions would be recorded as a component of interest expense and penalties relating to uncertain tax positions would be recorded as a component of general and administrative expenses.

The federal income tax returns of the organization for 2008, 2009, and 2010 are subject to examination by the IRS, generally for three years after they were filed.

NOTE 9 – Subsequent Events

The Organization has evaluated subsequent events from the statement of financial position date through March 31, 2011.

INDEPENDENT AUDITORS' REPORT

To the Board of Trustees, The George Gund Foundation

We have audited the accompanying statements of financial position of The George Gund Foundation as of December 31, 2010 and 2009, and the related statements of activities and cash flows for the years then ended. These financial statements are the responsibility of the Foundation's management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on our audits.

We conducted our audits in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audits provide a reasonable basis for our opinion.

In our opinion, the financial statements referred to above present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of The George Gund Foundation at December 31, 2010 and 2009, and the results of its activities and its cash flows for the years then ended, in conformity with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America.

Grant Program Guidelines

The history of The George Gund Foundation reflects a deep commitment to place, to the Greater Cleveland community that was the home of its founder and that remains the Foundation's home. The Foundation's philanthropic stewardship of this region derives not just from our history, but also from our belief that Cleveland can continue to develop original responses to urban issues and from our hope that collaborations across boundaries can create a crucible of innovation in all fields of endeavor. Moreover, the urban emphasis of our work stems from a belief that thriving cities are among the nation's best hopes for addressing our essential problems. This focus is especially vital in an era of diminished government involvement in urban issues, intensifying globalization and heightened awareness of the central role of regions.

The Foundation's guidelines reflect our long-standing interests in the arts, economic development and community revitalization, education, environment and human services because these areas embrace most of the major issues that any community must address. While we continue to organize much of our work within these program areas, there is increasing awareness that many issues and, therefore, many grant proposals do not fit neatly into one program category. Indeed, the work of a growing number of nonprofit organizations brings together aspects of several of our core interests, and, as a result, we are becoming ever more interdisciplinary in our approach.

This is particularly evident with initiatives that aim to make Cleveland, and urban areas generally, more globally competitive, livable, sustainable and just. It is in this domain that the greatest need and maximum opportunity converge with the Foundation's primary interests, expertise and ongoing stewardship. We especially seek to support innovative ideas being pursued by creative and entrepreneurial organizations.

Our primarily urban focus motivates us to devote attention and resources to the illumination of policies that shape the issues we care about. National, state and local policymaking affects all of the Foundation's work and the work of the organizations we fund. Consequently, we feel a special obligation to support the nonpartisan voice of nonprofit advocacy in policy deliberations that directly relate to our program interests.

Global climate change is an urgent issue that cuts across all of the Foundation's programs. Every organization and individual can help to address this problem. The Foundation takes seriously our own responsibility, and we want to hear from grant applicants what they are doing or considering to reduce or to eliminate their organizational impact on climate change. Our website includes links to helpful resources, and Foundation staff will assist grant seekers — both new and those of long standing — in all of our program areas with questions they may have.

ARTS

The Foundation values and supports the role the arts play in making Cleveland and its region a more desirable place to live, encouraging the growth of a creative workforce, catalyzing development in our neighborhoods and serving as a bridge between various segments of the community. The Foundation encourages a lively, diverse arts community in Greater Cleveland by funding projects in the city and its first-ring suburbs that contribute to Cleveland's urban vitality, attract new audiences, expand artistic offerings and increase organizational capacity. We also try to balance continuing support that ensures the stability of Cleveland's arts institutions with funding for new initiatives, programs and organizations that foster creativity in our community. Arts education continues to be a priority, with a focus on curriculum-related partnerships between arts organizations and the Cleveland Municipal School District. In addition, the Foundation seeks to advance the region's understanding of the importance of the arts by supporting the Community Partnership for Arts and Culture.

ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT AND COMMUNITY REVITALIZATION

Sustaining uniquely urban assets such as vibrant neighborhoods and a thriving downtown is a key part of a successful regional strategy to promote economic growth. The Foundation devotes considerable attention to these dynamics, in particular by supporting collaborative efforts that leverage resources. As a result, the highest priority is given to initiatives that bolster the impact of Foundation-supported intermediary organizations working to improve the competitiveness of Cleveland's neighborhoods and its metropolitan region. Examples of such initiatives include quality urban planning and design, improvements to urban parks and public spaces, promotion of equal opportunity and diversity in housing and the workplace and proposals to redevelop Cleveland's downtown, neighborhoods and first-ring suburbs.

EDUCATION

Education is fundamental to success, and if Cleveland is to produce, attract and retain talent and be the thriving center of a robust regional economy, expectations about education must rise exponentially. Consequently, our Foundation's focus is on the transformation of public education in Cleveland in order to equip children from early childhood onward with the skills they ultimately will need to meet the demands of college, the 21st-century workplace and international standards. Our primary area of interest is the creation and support of new, innovative, excellent schools in Cleveland that drive autonomy and accountability to the school level and create different teaching and learning conditions to ensure student success. We support statewide policy and advocacy efforts in furtherance of this work, particularly as it relates to the importance of high-quality teachers and principals in every classroom and school. We also maintain a desire to support disadvantaged students through key transitions, especially to higher education.

ENVIRONMENT

Human well-being is inextricably linked to the quality of the environment. Urban areas bring this fact into sharp focus as historic disregard for the environment and modern development pressures create great challenges. Cleveland's relationship to these issues — and, therefore, its opportunity — are unique because the 1969 fire on the Cuyahoga River was a key factor in launching the modern environmental movement. The Foundation supports organizations that seek to build on that legacy in order to transform the community into a model of urban sustainability. The Foundation focuses on opportunities to take advantage of Cleveland's distinctive ecosystem to advance environmental improvements, promote alternatives to urban sprawl, devise innovative ways for cities to take a leading role in the fight against climate change and increase public awareness of environmental issues.

HUMAN SERVICES

Heightened focus on developing a more globally competitive city and region demands recognition that people are at the heart of this effort and that all segments of society can make constructive contributions. To maximize those contributions, direct attention must be paid to the needs of those most at risk of being left out of social and economic transformation. Building human capital begins at birth, and the Foundation pays special attention to the needs of Greater Cleveland's disadvantaged children through grants to support early childhood care and education, abuse prevention and improved foster care and adoption systems. In addition, the Foundation provides some support for the local "safety net" of food, clothing, shelter and access to health care. A closely related set of interests is reflected in the Foundation's desire to help vulnerable populations achieve access to health insurance, the legal system, community support following release from prison and safe and affordable reproductive health services.

The Foundation normally does not consider grants for endowments. Capital requests must meet the Foundation's program goals and also adhere to "green building" standards of environmental sustainability. Details on these requirements are available from the Foundation. Grants are not made for debt reduction or to fund benefit events.

The Foundation does not make grants to individuals, nor does it administer programs it supports. Grants are limited to organizations located in the United States.

The Foundation makes grants only to organizations that meet Internal Revenue Code requirements as nonprofit tax-exempt organizations and to qualified government units and agencies. Grant funds may not be used to participate or intervene in any political campaign on behalf of or in opposition to any candidate for public office.

Grant Application Procedures

The Foundation encourages inquiries about the application of our funding guidelines to specific ideas in advance of the submission of formal proposals. Foundation staff welcome the opportunity to provide guidance, suggest alternatives and recommend partners.

Proposals are considered three times a year by the Foundation's Trustees at a winter-spring meeting, a summer meeting and a fall meeting. Deadlines for submitting proposals for consideration at the next regularly scheduled meeting of the Trustees are March 15, July 15 and November 15. Proposals are due the next business day if a deadline falls on a weekend.

All proposals must include a climate change statement, a brief explanation of what the organization is doing or considering to reduce or to eliminate its impact on climate change. The Foundation's website, www.GundFoundation.org, includes resources to assist grantees with this task. In this same spirit, we ask that organizations do not submit proposals in notebooks, binders or plastic folders and print proposals on both sides of each sheet of paper.

Applicants also must include a completed cover sheet, available at www.GundFoundation.org, which is signed by the organization's board president and executive director. In addition, arts organizations participating in the Ohio Cultural Data Project should submit the George Gund Foundation report available at www.OhCulturalData.org with proposals. Proposals should also include:
